Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Saturday 19 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rather cloudy, showers in places, especially across southern UK tonight.

This Evening and Tonight:
Showery rain, heavy in places, likely to spread to parts of central and southern England, perhaps Wales, before easing later; thunder is possible across southeast England. Scotland and Northern Ireland seeing showers ease before possible rain in the northwest later.

Sunday:
Drying up but staying rather cloudy and cool for many central and eastern areas. Occasional warm sunshine in west and south but scattered heavy showers. Some rain in northwest UK.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Rain, heavy at times, will affect the south on Monday, clearing by Tuesday morning. Otherwise dry with some sunshine. Turning cloudier with patchy rain in the northwest on Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.